Built right on the banks of the Linyanti River, on the border between Namibia and Botswana, you find Jackalberry Tented Camp.

This unique lodge has been built inside the Nkasa Rupara National Park (formerly known as Mamili National Park) and is completely unfenced.

The Nkasa Rupara National Park has large populations of wildlife roam freely. Many can be spotted from the decks of the multi- storey lodge built in and around the enormous Jackalberry tree.

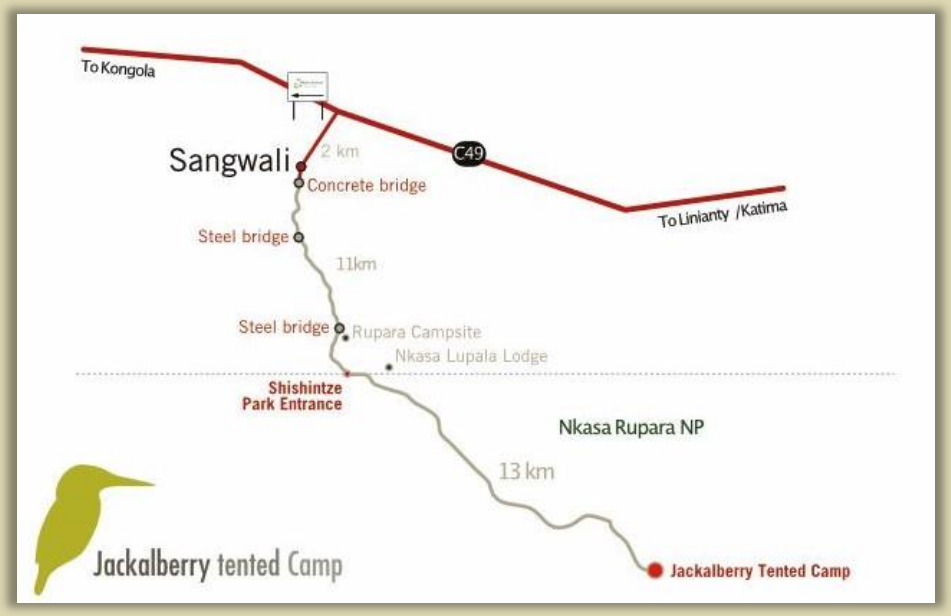

The decks offer360°uninterrupted views sweeping across the flood plains of Namibia to the woodlands of Botswana just across the river.

Despite its remote location, Jackalberry Tented Camp boasts many home comforts. The ground floor is a communal area, the upper floors house reception, dining area/bar, and a spacious and comfortable lounge which boasts exceptional views of the surrounding landscape.
