

Ladies and gentlemen,

Every year around the International Museum Day on 18th May, a specific spectacle takes place in numerous cities in Poland and throughout Europe, initiated modestly by museums exactly. In the beginning, it aimed to promote those institutions, alter the ambiance associated with museums as places where one walks around wearing house slippers and talks in a quiet voice. The Long Night of Museums has shown just how extraordinarily interesting collections owned by these institutions can be, and how originally they may be presented.

Others started to envy the success – not in terms of the turnout, but creativity and the ability to get across to the public with the seemingly difficult message behind the high culture. Due to being active in fields not associated with culture, state administration, courts, temples of various faiths, schools, services, and many, many more, wanted their share in this success. They used their chance superbly.

This is the Long Night of Museums cultivated by Warsaw for over a decade now. A modest event with participation of 11 museums evolved into an enormous, logistically developed happening encompassing Warsaw and its surroundings. Every institution participating in the project wants to present itself in an original, unique way. They encourage viewers-guests to come by preparing special exhibitions and presentations, on show for this one night only. They open their doors, despite remaining diligently guarded on a daily basis. They think up programmes for children. And the experience is a really big thing for the youngest ones as well, because oftentimes they stay in the city with their parents until midnight.

This year's, 16th, Long Night of Museums in Warsaw is looking very attractive. On Saturday, 18th May, 260 institutions will invite visitors. Long Night of Museums' regulars need no special encouragement to participate in this extraordinary event. I hope that, as always, the audience – inhabitants of Warsaw and tourists alike – will also show up enthusiastically, and that emotions stirred by experienced attractions will stay in their memory for a long time to come.

Rafał Trzaskowski
Mayor of the Capital City of Warsaw

The Long Night of Museums with the Tarchomin '80 board game

5:30 pm – 7:00 pm Three years ago, we came across a real treasure. Never-before-published photographs and films made in fields and forests where the Tarchomin housing estate was being built back in the Polish People's Republic of the 1980s. The author of the photos and films was Wiesław Antosik, a cameraman at the Polish Television.

They are excellent historical material, which we made publicly available in the form of an exhibition, a film, and a photography album, all of which enjoyed enormous interest. Therefore, keeping up the momentum, we... invite you to a promotional event for a board game for the whole family, Tarchomin '80, based on Antosik's photographs. On the Long Night of Museums, first games will take place!!! Guests will get a chance to receive games, too.

heritage

7:00 pm – 9:30 pm, 9:30 pm – 12:00 am

Two two-and-a-half-hours-long ride through Białotęka on a historic bus, tracing places and events which appeared in press articles in Warsaw in the 18th and 19th century. Participants will learn, i.e., where a balloon landing took place, where a Wooder mower was tested, and what one soldier from 1831, who fought in the Białotęka Battle on 24th February, did that made him famous.
Moreover, they will visit the place where the famous Round Table was created and get to know Białotęka's heritage. Host: Bartłomiej Włodkowski.

i Participation free of charge,
please sign up via fundacjaave.pl

Vernissage of a retrospective exhibition of works by Joseph Pressmane

Villa la Fleur invites you to a vernissage of a retrospective exhibition of works by Joseph Pressmane, presenting a hundred oil paintings and drawings from Mark Roeffer's collection. Joseph Pressmane (1904–1967) was a Jewish painter born in Berestechko. He studied in Warsaw and Lviv, and spent most of his artistic life in France. Expressive portraits made up the biggest part of his creative output, along with landscapes, in which far echoes of travels to Palestine, and Cézanne's and Gauguin's paintings are visible.

The exhibition is an excellent occasion to relish French landscapes, pulsating with life.

The Long Night of Museums with Andrzej Mleczko's works

The 2019 Long Night of Museums at Łomianki Cultural Centre will combine an exhibition of works by Andrzej Mleczko with workshops on drawing and caricature for children, youth, and adults. Presented posters with Andrzej Mleczko's works will touch on various topics, however – in relation with the anniversary of the first parliamentary elections in Poland – some of the show-pieces will be dedicated to politics and elections, through the Artist's classic, funny lens.

Moreover, participants will get a chance to get acquainted with drawing techniques and the arcana of the art, as well as receive a caricature of themselves, drawn by workshop teachers.

There will be many interesting stories. Here is one of them, about the forge: the temperature of the hearth reached 1,500 degrees Celsius and was high enough to melt steel. The forge was located on Siekierkowska St., near the settlement of cabmen, who were the main reason behind the buoyant growth of the blacksmith’s business...

“Tapestry of the Year” – vernissage of an exhibition

AD»

8:00 pm – 9:30 pm For the 14th time already (and for the first time in its new seat on Rzymowskiego St.), Kadr Community Centre invites you to a vernissage of an exhibition summarising the “Tapestry of the Year” competition. It will be one of few events in Warsaw offering visitors the chance to get really close to the extraordinary area of artistic craftsmanship that is weaving. Creating tapestries requires great artistry, precision, and patience on the part of the creator. And, first of all, imagination.

Globetrotters at the museum

9:00 pm – 10:00 pm Extraordinary edition of one of the years-long flagship events at Kadr, namely meetings with globetrotters. This evening will revolve around Ewa and Lesław Adamski, a travelling married couple. With the Long Night of Museums in mind, they will prepare a prelection dedicated to their visits to famous museums of the world. Mr and Ms Adamski have travelled almost the whole globe, so their story will be fascinating!

“Love Express. Walerian Borowczyk’s Case” – film screening

10:30 pm – 12:30 am Night-time screening of the documentary “Love Express. Walerian Borowczyk’s Case”, dedicated to one of the most outstanding film directors of the 1960s and the 1970s. Borowczyk, Polish artist enormously successful in France (only one of his films was made in Poland: the famous “Story of Sin”, based on the novel by Stefan Żeromski), shaped his unique style by, i.a., creating visual animated shorts. We will watch a few of those, as a complement to the documentary directed by Kuba Mikruda. The film is a fascinating story of relations between the spheres of high art.

When looking at Maria Węgrzyniak-Szczepkowska's tapestries, one is under the impression that they are made from discarded materials, useless or found in the waste-yard of life. Their number and places where she finds them are oftentimes a testament to the condition of the contemporary human. The observation of everyday life provokes and prompts topics which the Artist addresses when working with the loom. Everyday objects being part of the work serve as guidelines for the viewer and are important threads for the artist.

“12 Women” by Anna Kowal is an exhibition of photographs and paintings, providing a literal illustration for a volume of poems titled “12 Species of Women”, by Antoni Kucharczyk (peasant penman). It is a dialogue of a contemporary female artist with a male artist from the 19th century, who are connected by the same space: Bęczyn – a village in the region of Lesser Poland (Małopolska). Each of the 12 heroines of the photographic collages is impersonated by an excellent Polish actor Krzysztof Globisz. The exhibition is accompanied by an audio recording of A. Kucharczyk's poems – interpreted by Krzysztof Globisz as well. Anna Kowal graduated from the Academy of Fine Arts in Warsaw. She is active in the field of sculpting, painting, and photography.

"Two Horizons" – exhibition of works
by Katarzyna Słowiańska-Kucz and Konrad Kucz

Exhibition presenting two points of view on the horizon of a child's life and an adult person's horizon. Their perspectives definitely differ. A child's perception, with their anxieties and emotions, seems naïve. It is, however, just as serious and valuable in the overall process of building the full humanness we were created for.

The Lost Museum 2019

Project combining culture and multimedia. It supports actions popularizing the knowledge of lost works of art and culture in Poland. It brings back the memory and enables a mental retrieval of National Heritage. The project is based on a film dedicated to Polish works of art and culture which were lost irrevocably as a result of wartime actions (mostly during WWII).

The Long Night of Museums at BUW Gardens

7:00 pm – 12:00 am The Gardens of the University of Warsaw Library consist of two parts: the upper and the lower. The Upper Garden is one of the biggest and most beautiful rooftop gardens in Europe, covering the area of 1 hectare. It is divided into four parts: golden to the North, blue to the West, carmine-pink to the South, and silver to the East. The individual parts differ not only in colour but also in form, scent, and atmosphere. The inspiration for the creation of distinct gardens, with their own colour schemes, came from the functional division of the roof, marked with skylights and technical fixtures. Separate areas of the rooftop garden are connected by catwalks, paths, little bridges, and pergolas.

Exhibition of Tadeusz Bukowski photography

The exhibition is a preview of the presentation of a new collection comprising more than 1,500 photographs by Tadeusz Bukowski, which will be made available by the Warsaw Rising Museum for 1st August 2019. The collection documents Warsaw between 1935 and 1950, and presents transformations taking place in the city: from the unique atmosphere of the Second Polish Republic, through German occupation and the Rising, to the capital city after the war – demolished but enthusiastically coming back to life. As far as the theme, it is still the same city (beloved by the author) and its inhabitants, full of energy. The key to the exhibition is the author's returning to the same places, changed so immensely over the course of that dozen or so years.

Łukasz Rudnicki "Sztorm"

Experiencing the painting works of Łukasz Rudnicki introduces the viewer into the artist's incredibly natural world.

Juxtapositions of clear forms built by accumulating lines create a clear picture, presenting reality in a synthetic way. Marine themes become a pretext for the creation of intense value contrasts, for the building – with enormous deliberation – of the vision which the artist wishes to present to us.

Łukasz Rudnicki is an assistant professor at Prof. Ryszard Sekuła's drawing atelier, at the Faculty of Painting of the Academy of Fine Arts in Warsaw.

Schaeffer. Classic of Avant-garde.

Avant-garde of Classic

The year 2019 marks the 90th birthday of Bogusław Schaeffer – composer, graphic artist, dramatist, pedagogue, philosopher, true Leonardo Da Vinci of the 21st century, creator of a rich oeuvre, meaningful contributor to the development of Polish culture. A broad array of Schaeffer's creative output will be presented. The artist combines various fields of art and keeps an open form of presenting and interacting with the viewers. The Foundation has started to archive and digitize Prof. Schaeffer's works, and wishes to present Professor's works, talk about his creative activity, and invite visitors to the 11th Era of Schaeffer, in November 2019.

Old punt's stories at Czerniakowski Harbour

On this one-and-only night in Warsaw, we will take you on an incredible journey aboard an old, wooden punt named "Dar Mazowsza". The punt is waiting, moored at Czerniakowski Harbour. And since the night is extraordinary, the journey will be unusual too: not in space, but in time. Aboard the romantically lit "Dar Mazowsze", tales about an old-time town by the great river will emerge from the darkness, stories of bargemen, and interesting facts about treasures sunken in the Vistula. We will discover the river's different life – after sunset.

Exhibition of works by Piotr Krosny

This is what Piotr’s friend Tomasz Jastrun wrote about his paintings: “His art is expressive, based on colour, immersed in tradition. Krosny paints portraits most eagerly. Those are not, however, images of particular people, but an image of the human in general. There is another side to this art, too, namely undressed women. Here, just like in the portraits, a beautiful monstrosity of the human image is present. In terms of the colour and the thickness of the painting matter, Krosny seems closest to Zygmunt Menkes, but he is a separate painter, thoroughly original. This is excellent painting!”.

“Translucency” – joint exhibition

In artistic printing techniques, translucency is an effect of the superimposition of stencils one atop another, thus creating a complete image. Image, which reveals itself like a thought brought up from inside one’s mind. Translucency of layers is analogous to the translucency of thoughts. An image built with the use of textures, colours, forms... gains new meanings. These meanings accumulate, overlay in a dialogue with the person looking at the picture.

Fascinated by contemporary technologies of information transmission and their incredible potential for shaping lifestyles, basing on images from popular computer games and tourist guidebooks, the artists research formal possibilities of digital blurs, distortions, and imperfections. Basing on observations of the relation of a contemporary traveller with the landscape they are surrounded by – which more often than not is limited to compulsive photographing, as opposed to direct experiences – the artists question the trust in virtually constructed images.

Igor Duda comes from Banská Bystrica. Over the course of more than forty years of his creative activity, he has used various techniques: graphic art, oil painting, watercolours, drawing, and sculpture. The array of topics he touches on in his work is rather wide, but at the same time very particular. Portraits (of characters known from the world of literature, as well as his friends) and music crop up throughout his body of work. The latter is an especially important source of inspiration for the artist, which is clear when looking at numerous pieces presenting outstanding national and foreign musicians.

The core of the palaeontology exhibition comprises skeletons of dinosaurs found in the Gobi desert. The biggest room is filled almost totally by a massive skeleton of an Opisthocoelicaudia, and fossilized dinosaur eggs, remains of armoured dinosaurs and early ceratopsian, as well as small skulls of primitive mammals which lived on Earth in the shadow of enormous dinosaurs. The Museum presents interesting finds from Krasiejów, near Opole, where in 1993 a true burial ground of Triassic reptiles and amphibians was discovered. And the room dedicated to the evolution of mammals is ruled by a reconstruction of the famous Lucy the Australopithecus.

Maestro Żeglarski, "Tarpaulins"

The first "exhibition" Leszek Żeglarski has ever organised was in the Louvre – in the Summer of 1981, together with a friend, he hung his landscapes in the Museum's toilet. Three years later, he received his diploma after graduating from the Academy of Fine Arts in Cracow. In his manifestos, he described the academy as a "corpse of art". The artist is considered one of the leaders of existential neo-realism. Jerzy Duda-Grac, Maestro's promotor, wrote: "Żeglarski wakes us up from an anaesthesia after a drunken night, wakes us up from a sweet dream".

The exhibition will present oil paintings created on sheets of tarpaulin reclaimed from old military tents.

“Among Pads” – Grzegorz Kozera’s installation

“Among Pads” is an installation made of colourful sheets of paper from little notepads from the 1990s. They arrived in Poland after the first post-war free parliamentary elections in 1989, and the country’s opening to the world of Western culture. They presented characters known from American cartoons, animals, as well as musicians, actors, and footballers. Collecting them was a shared experience of that generation, girls and boys alike. Moreover, this fascination made it possible for barely-conscious or deep-hidden homosexual inclinations of more than one collector to partially come into existence. Clippings from newspapers, magazines, and LGBT calendars refer to this phenomenon.

From February to October 1945, Willa Jasny Dom (Bright House Villa) was the seat and the torture house of the Main Directorate of Information of the Polish Army. In its basements prison cells were set up, while interrogation rooms and offices were located on the upper levels. Over the time of the prison's functioning, more than a thousand of women and men were subjects to bestial treatment here, including soldiers of the Home Army. Among the prisoners at the underground prison was, i.a., gen. August Emil Fieldorf aka "Nil".

Roman Piotrowski, and others. Those settlements were supposed to satisfy the hunger for apartments and a decent life. They were designed in accordance with the spirit of international modernism, ideas appearing in the German Bauhaus or seen in Le Corbusier's works, undertaken as a challenge in modernist Gdynia. Here in Koto, those ideas, starting in 1934–1935, began to take shape and get filled with life in the estate's buildings, one after another.

Railway-themed Long Night of the Museums

During this year's edition of the Railway-themed Long Night of Museums, visitors will get a chance to try their hand at the work of an engine driver, with the use of a professional simulator of the EU07 electric locomotive. Guests will be also invited to take a look at the interiors of carriages which on a daily basis remain unavailable for the public and to visit the railway food court.

⊕ Just like every year, there will be historic reenactors present, and the steam engines will be illuminated in a special, colourful way.

⊕ This year's edition will take place in the museum's newly arranged open-air steam engine heritage park, related with the ongoing construction works at the Warszawa Główna station.

Wawelberg Colony – historical walk

6:00 pm – 7:30 pm Start: Zagożdźski Confectionery Shop (Pracownia Cukiernicza Zagożdźski), 15 Górczewska St. Built between 1898 and 1900, designed by Edward Goldberg, the oldest existing residential estate in Warsaw. It was founded by Hipolit Wawelberg (Varsovian, financier, philanthropist) and his wife Ludwika. They did it with nonaffluent working people in mind, giving them a chance to improve their existence and elevate their social status; host: Andrzej Chybowski.

"Free and Independent" – exhibition of paintings by the first independent painters from the Barbican

6:00 pm – 1:00 am Otwarta Kolonia (Open Colony), 15 Górczewska St. and Gallery of the Art Treasure Trove Foundation (Galeria Fundacji Skarbnica Sztuki), 8A Działdowska St.

In the early 1960s, art exhibitions and selling took place at the Barbican in Warsaw, without any interference by a qualification commission nor censorship offices. Among the first to present their works there were: W. Smolarek, J. Naliwajko, W. Popielarczyk, J. Wagner, and J. Lassota. This year marks also the 50th anniversary of the creation of the Independent69 (Niezależni69) group.

7:00 pm – 9:30 pm Lecture on the first independent painters, whose works are presented within the exhibition (Open Colony, ul. Górczewska 15); host: Agnieszka Stróżyk

After the tragic death of priest Jerzy Popiełuszko, more than 23 million people came to his grave, located by the church in which he had served. The story of priest Popiełuszko, a regular guy from a village in Podlasie, who shook the communist system in Poland and Eastern Europe, is fascinating. On the Long Night of Museums, visitors will learn about his life and the intricacies of history from witnesses of the events from years ago.
